

Traditional Leaders

CONSIDERING the vital role-played by traditional chiefs and all rural women in our societies, incmedia commits itself to the mammoth task of bringing to light their hidden extra-ordinary contributions.

Our female Traditional Chiefs ensure safe, health and abundant supply of food for our people, help conserve and manage natural resources. They are custodians of ancestral and community land; custodians of culture, customary laws and traditions including history; the initiators and champions of development activities in their respective areas of jurisdiction; they are responsible for the maintenance of law and order including presiding over and settling non-criminal civil disputes.

There are a lot of psychological, cultural, academic and emotional problems that limit their effectiveness yet they continue to perform excellently and working hard in their various fields, and in some cases, even better than their urban counterparts. Below are names of female chiefs, sub-chiefs and senior chiefs from all the three regions of Malawi.
